Cats at Sea.

United Service

Certain animals were once thought to provoke storms at sea, and were thus regarded as unlucky by seamen. A dead hare on board ship has long been thought a storm bringer. The hare is unlucky in many folk-lore stories. Many people, as Lapps, Finns and Chinese, will not eat it. As an animal supposed to see at night, it was connected with the moon, shining at night, and we have eastern traditions of the hare in the moon. Hence it is, with the moon, a weather maker. The cat was still more widely feared as a storm-bringer, and is always unlucky on board ship. She "carries a gale in her tail," and is thought particularly to provoke a storm by playing with a gown or apron, rubbing her face, licking her fur the wrong way, etc. Provoking a cat will certainly bring a gale, in sailor belief, and drowning one will surely raise a tempest. Fielding, in a voyage to Lisbon (1755), says: "The kitten at last recovered, to the great joy of the good captain, but to the great disappointment of some of the sailors, who asserted that the drowning of a cat was the very surest way of raising a favorable wind." Flaws on the surface of the water are in sailor-lore "cat's-paws." There is a Hungarian proverb that a cat does not die in water, hence its paws disturb the surface. A larger flurry on the water is a "cat-skin." So it rains cats and dogs, and the stormy northwest wind in some parts of England is the "cat's nose." In Chinese lore tigers cause storms, and the Japanese wind god has steel claws and a tigerish countenance. In Germany there is a proverb that any one making a cat his enemy will be attended at his funeral by rats and rain. Cats see better at night, are connected with the moon in many legends, are witches' familiars, and hence are eyed askant by many. The Egyptian goddess of evil, Pasht, was a cat headed goddess. Cats were, as we have seen, used by witches in raising a gale, and are said to smell a wind, while pigs see it. On shipboard, the malevolent character of the cat is shown in nautical nomenclature, and the song now popular—

"It was the cat"—

is liable to more than a double interpretation. The cat-o'-nine-tails is not a desirable acquaintance, nor do sailors have a love for the miscellaneous gear connected with raising the anchor, such as the cat-head, cat fall, cat-tail, cat-hook, cat-block, etc. The lubber's hole, through which it is thought derogatory to the able seaman to pass, is in French "trou de chat." Weak tea is called by sailors "cat-lap." Freya, the Norse goddess, was attended by cats, and thus Friday, her day, was thought unlucky. A spectral dog "shony" is said to predict a storm when appearing on the Cornish beach.

MONDAY EVENING, NOV. 21, 1881.

GUITEAU, it is asserted upon the authority of one of his guards, said the other day that his conduct in the court room was for the purpose of having an influence upon public sentiment—that every man who saw his performances would believe him to be crazy.

THE sensation of the day is the attempted killing of Guiteau, on Saturday, as he was going from the the court house to the jail, the full details of which will be found in our telegraphic columns. The man arrested for the shooting protests his innocence. All accounts agree in stating that the miserable wretch upon whom the eyes of the whole country are turned just now, was frightened nearly to death by this attempt to wreak summary vengeance upon him, but after reaching the jail vaingloriously boasted that the Lord had saved his life.

MORE SPEEDY JUSTICE

The telegraph brings news of another session of Judge Lynch's court at Durand, Wis., on Saturday, on which occasion the red-handed murderer, Ed. Maxwell, alias Williams, was taken from the custody of the officers and hung on a convenient tree in the court house yard. The exploits of the Maxwell brothers (or Williams brothers, as they were more commonly known) have filled the columns of the newspapers for months past. They killed two brothers named Coleman, at Durand on the 10th of July last, while resisting arrest, and from that time until the 6th of the present month have been fugitives from justice, though pursued and hunted by the authorities of several different states. In the latter part of September the sheriff of Calhoun county, Illinois, was killed, and two of his posse wounded, while attempting the capture of two men that were without doubt the Maxwell brothers. After this adventure the two desperadoes were not heard of again until the 5th of November, when the sheriff of Hall county, Nebraska, was informed that two suspicious characters were at a farm house near Grand Island. On the following morning the sheriff, accompanied by three deputies, surprised the villains by coming upon them while they were still in bed, and succeeded in capturing one of them, who turned out to be El. Maxwell. The other, Lon. Maxwell, escaped. El. was taken to Wisconsin last week, and expiated his crimes at the end of a rope on Saturday, as above stated.

Thoughtful people everywhere will regret these exhibitions of popular vengeance, but if they result in curing some of the defects in our criminal laws, or rather in the methods of their administration, the experience will not be in vain. Whenever the people become convinced that criminals will be speedily and surely punished by the courts there will be no more lynchings. The disease is a frightful one, but the cure is exceedingly simple.

THE new carriage in which Mrs. John W. Mackey takes her airings in Paris cost $30,000.

IT is said that Landseer never painted a full grown cat. He painted kittens and "left the rest to nature."

ANOTHER urgent reason why Guiteau should be hanged is his threat to lecture if he is acquitted.—Pioneer-Press.

THE other night burglars laboriously drilled seven holes in a safe at Madison, Wis. They discovered 11 cents—and also that the safe had been unlocked. But they had the satisfaction of knowing that they had spoiled the safe.

A WEALTHY Pennsylvanian recently died, leaving a will in which occurs this curious sentence: "And I further disinherit and prohibit from participation in the distribution of my estate such of my descendants as persist in wearing mustaches."

THE coal shaft, two miles west of Canton, caught fire Wednesday night, consumed the timber of the air shaft and the timber and hoisting apparatus and buildings at its mouth. Sixty men and the mules were at the bottom, but by dexterous efforts were got out without any loss of life.

Grand Discoveries.

The discovery of a great remedy is frequently a matter of accident. This, however, is not the case with TARAXINE, now widely known and approved as an almost infallible remedy for Liver Complaint and diseases of the Kidneys and Bowels. The best physicians have for many years used various preparations of dandelion root in these diseases but with only indifferent success. After a long series of experiments, a combination, with the active principle of the Dandelion as a basis, and other improved remedies to brighten its potency has been effected, and the desired specific for these diseases has been found in the product—TARAXINE.

Dr A. J. Stoner, agent. 2

A PAPER called the Mercury, and published at Meridian, Miss., is evidently edited by a person of rather excitable temperament, as the following editorials from a recent issue show.

After Tuesday, at Marion, the man who starts out to organize the negroes to vote against the white folks had better have gone West to grow up with a new country. Lauderdale county will be unhealthy for him.

The Southern army endured four years of war and its hardships, not from compulsion, but from a patriotic sentiment to defend their rights. The Northern army fought for hire, pelf, or booty. As for Vallandigham, he was treated with disgraceful severity by a free government.

THE Richmond (Va.) Dispatch (State-Rights Bourbon) freely admits that it was a Republican victory at the late election in that State. It says:

No. It was a Republican victory. It is recognized as such by every Republican in the United States, as well as by every true Democrat. It was also, of course, a negro victory. Some papers estimate that five per cent. of the so-called Readjuster votes of last Tuesday were cast by whites and 95 per cent. by negroes. It ought to be enough for the white men of Virginia to know that even a majority of the votes which defeated them were cast by negroes.

THE vote of the people of Colorado upon the site of the State capital continues it at Denver by over 12,000 plurality. The other leading places voted for were Pueblo and Colorado Springs but the vote for Denver was nearly three to one over the combined vote for all the rest. The Denver News tells an amusing story about this election. It seems that Colorado Springs and Pueblo sent maps of the State to Rico for the purpose of advertising their plans for the capital as against Denver, but the artist accidentally left Rico off the map entirely. This agitated the Rico men, and they voted solidly against Pueblo.

MR. J. STANLEY BROWN, Private Secretary of the late President Garfield, has resigned his place at the White House, to take effect December 1. He will be succeeded by Mr. John C. Reed, who filled the post of Private Secretary to Mr. Arthur when Vice President. Mr. Brown has formed a partnership with Lieutenant Bateman, formerly of the navy, son of Warner M. Bateman, of Cincinnati, for the purpose of carrying on a banking and brokerage business. He will, at the request of Mrs. Garfield, prepare a biography of the late President, which will give a true record of Garfield's entire life.

DURAND, WIS., Nov. 19.—At a quarter past 2 o'clock this afternoon Ed Maxwell, alias Williams, was hung in the court yard here. His examination was to have taken place this forenoon. He stated that he should waive examination, but the matter was postponed till 2 o'clock in the afternoon. The fact that he was not at once sent back to Menomonee gave rise to the suspicion that there was a movement to be made to take him away from the officers. From about noon until 2 o'clock the people from the surrounding country came into Durand by squads, and at 2 o'clock the court house yard and court room were thronged with men and women. The prisoner made a statement, confessing the shooting of the Coleman brothers, and what he claimed to be the facts connected with the affair, and that he should claim it was done in self defense. Immediately thereafter a rope was thrown over his neck. He made a feeble but momentary effort to release himself, but was instantly jerked down, then through the aisle down the stair way to the ground, and dragged to a tree a few rods distant, and the rope was thrown over a limb and El Maxwell left swinging between earth and heaven. It appears that the lynching was preconcerted and arranged, and, if not participated in by the masses, received their tacit consent. The widow of Charles Coleman and Henry Coleman and his wife were present and witnessed the rescuing of Maxwell from the custody of the law. So rapid were the movements of the vigilantes that death from strangulation ensued before they reached the tree.

There is intense excitement at Durand, and even those who do not approve of the summary method by which he was executed do not give expression to their disapproval. There doubtless was no more hardened criminal in the land, and his statements and manner of making them showed him to be utterly void of all moral faculties.

GEN. SHERMAN'S wife was so intimately acquainted with President Arthur's late wife, and the latter was so fond of her, that he recently told General Sherman he intended calling upon his wife, but the General told him he thought it due the President that Mrs. Sherman should make the call, which she did at a time appointed by the President, accompanied by her youngest daughter. The social visit was greatly enjoyed by all three.—Washington Star.

THE Supreme Court of New York has just rendered a decision that is of interest to employers and employes. Two years ago the seventh story floor of a furniture manufactory broke down, killing an employe who was there at work at the time. The widow brought suit for the full amount allowed by the statute, $5,000, and, as it was shown that the proprietors were guilty of gross neglect, the jury returned a verdict for the full amount, and the Supreme Court has affirmed the decision of the court below.

A NEW version of an old song: "I know a bank wherein a cashier lies,"—Boston Courier.

"BILL JONES WAS THERE"

And Tried to Kill Guiteau,

But Only Scratched His Arm.

Lynching in Wisconsin.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 19.—It is reported that Guiteau was shot at after leaving the court room, the ball taking effect in his hand.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 19.—There are several rumors in circulation, one of which is that the van in which Guiteau was riding from the court room back to jail had reached the vicinity of the capitol, a man riding on horseback came up and fired two shots, and then rode rapidly away in the direction of the navy yard. It is not believed that Guiteau was hit at all.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 19.—A young man who witnessed the shots fired into the prison van as it passed through the capitol grounds, en route from the city hall to the jail, says the person who did the shooting was a middle-aged man, well dressed, and mounted on a remarkably fine white horse. Immediately after the shots were fired, the horse was started on a dead run, and although the guard stood on the rear steps of the van, with pistol in hand, trying to cover the man who did the shooting, he made his escape without difficulty. As he passed by the young man mentioned, he the remarked, "I have shot the ——— Guiteau!"

A telephonic communication just received from the Washington asylum, which is situated near the district jail, states that Guiteau was struck by a shot fired into the van, but only slightly wounded.

The driver of the prison van gives the following particulars of the attempt to shoot Guiteau. The facts are substantially these: Upon the adjournment of court the van started as usual for the jail, having one policeman as a guard, who sat on the seat with the driver. Before reaching the capitol the guard noticed a young man on horseback riding leisurely behind and close to the van. Seeing an armed policeman by the side of the driver, he exclaimed, "I've shot the ———," and putting spurs to his horse, dashed down East Capitol street in the direction of the Congressional cemetery. The policeman fired one shot at the fast disappearing horseman, and the driver of the van whipped his horses into a gallop, and kept in sight of him for several blocks. The would-be avenger was, however, mounted on a blooded horse, and readily escaped into the country. He was described as a smooth-faced man, about 25 years of age, and a dashing horseman. He had on a dark brown suit. The van then proceeded to the jail and Guiteau was taken out in a state of great excitement. He exclaimed: "I have been shot. Notify Major Brock at once. Tell him to arrest the scoundrel, and have him dealt with as he deserves."

On examination, it was found the ball had just grazed Guiteau's left wrist, inflicting a mere scratch. The ball struck the opposite side of the van, and fell upon the floor, where it was found on reaching the jail.

The announcement of the attempt upon Guiteau's life created intense excitement upon the streets, and all sorts of rumors were at once in circulation. The would-be killer was seen about the court house this afternoon, and attempted to gain admission during the day, but failed. He was also seen to mount his horse soon after the van left, and to ride leisurely after it. It was rumored that he hailed from Illinois, but there seems to be no foundation for the report.

It was whispered in the crowd within the court house, just previous to adjournment, that to day would be the last day of the trial. A remark was also heard in the crowd that if one wanted to see Guiteau, they had better do so to day. This would lead to the belief that more than one person was aware that the attempt would be made.

ANOTHER ACCOUNT.

Guiteau was shot in the right fore arm but it is only a flesh wound. He was terribly frightened when he got to the jail. He said to the officer in charge of the guard: "Tell Detective Voss and Marshal Williams that I want a double guard sent down to the jail and to take me up to the court house on Monday morning." Guiteau's wound is very slight, as the ball struck him after passing through a panel of the van. Only one policeman and jail guard were with the van as an escort. The assailant has made good his escape and there is no chance of his capture, as public opinion is considerably in his favor. Many express regret that the shot was not fatal.

Guiteau is still very uneasy and frightened, and insists that the guard at the jail shall be doubled. He says that the failure to kill him is another evidence that the Lord is taking care of him, and will not let any harm come to him.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 19.—Bill Jones is the name by which the would-be assassin is familiarly known in the District of Columbia, where he has been a resident all his life. He is well known in police circles. One of the officers at the station said: "Bill Jones, why we know him as well as we know where the sun rises." For many years a man named Bates carried on the business of a soap-maker. He became well-to-do and purchased a farm which adjoins the Chase-Sprague estate at Edgewood, retired to it, and died. Bill Jones, who had married Bates' daughter, inherited the property, and has since then lived a happy go-lucky, reckless, dare-devil life. He had a fine farm and sufficient means for his tastes. He was, the police say, seldom sober. He is fond of his cups, and sometimes has epileptic fits. "The most that they will do with him," said an officer, will be to call him a 'crank' and give him a term at the asylum.

Bill Jones, when he fired at Guiteau, was immediately in front of the Capitol, at the eastern extremity of the Capitol grounds. He spurred his horse in an easterly direction, until he reached the street running northward near the Baltimore & Ohio track, which he followed to the Baltimore & Ohio Depot, when, turning north, he passed the depot and rode madly towards the country. As he passed the depot the police officer stationed there recognized the rider as Bill Jones. The officer who first discovered his trail found him on the Seventh street road, at a drinking place beyond the Soldiers' Home. The officer found Jones' sorrel horse at the door, warm, but not much blown, and, entering, he discovered Jones at the bar.

"You are under arrest," said the officer, "come along." Jones had no objection. In fact, he was at the time entertaining the barroom audience with the story of his exploits, and said that he had shot Guiteau and ended the great trial. The police officer had already heard along the road that Jones had stopped to boast of it to others. The officer did not search Jones, or take away his pistol. There he made a mistake, as he soon afterwards came near discovering to his cost. He also did not ask Jones to exchange horses with him, or to insist that he should walk to the nearest precinct station. The consequence was that the officer lost his prisoner. They had not left the drinking place very far behind when farmer Bill Jones said something that his little sorrel nag seemed to understand, for in a very few seconds the distance between the brown mare and the policeman's horse was very considerable. "And you should have seen her go," said the officer who knew the most about it. "There isn't a horse in the police service that could have kept within sight of her. The policeman tried to stop him by a bullet, and Bill Jones returned the compliment. Neither bullet hit, and Bill Jones and his sorrel mare started on the back road between the soldiers' home towards the Bladensburg country. The officer, rather sorrowful, is said to have returned to the nearest police station to tell that he did not have the prisoner. Around the soldiers' home park, down the steep hill, Jones made his way more leisurely. Arrived at Lowerton Lodge, the eastern gate of the soldiers' home, he turned northeastwardly towards Bladensburg, passing his own farm in the direction of a gin mill in the doubtful border country near the famous dueling-ground. This route, by the way that Bill Jones took, was fully six miles from the spot where he took leave of the policeman with his heavy-footed steed. At this rum shop the two mounted police, who had been sent eastward from Capitol hill along the Bladensburg pike, found the trail of the rollicking fugitive. They knew nothing of the experience of the other policeman, but they took pains not to lose their prisoner. They took his pistol from him. They tied his steed between their horses, and the fleet-footed brown nag, tired from a jaunt which could not have been much less than twelve miles, seemed pleased at not being forced to another race, for which it was not to have an opportunity. The officers took their prisoner to the nearest station, the Seventh street precinct, near the boundary, at the foot of Howard college hill. There he will be kept in custody until Monday.

Bill Jones, on being seen in his cell, claims that he is not the man. He is very drunk, and evidently was drunk when he committed the assault.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 20.—Hundreds of visitors were at the jail to day. Religious services were held this morning in the rotunda. Guiteau was the attraction of the day.

The prisoner's slight wound causes him no inconvenience whatever. He says he must have a strong guard tomorrow to assist the Lord in protecting him.

Wm. Jones, arrested for the attempt to shoot Guiteau, was taken to the police station about 9 last evening. He was very drunk and unable to say much about the matter. Being nearly sober this morning, he realized the situation and at once secured counsel, R. K. Elliott, who will defend him in the police court to-morrow. Jones, on being asked why he did not hit Guiteau, laughed and said: "It was not I that shot him. I want to see them prove it." The authorities last night were so confident the right man had been secured, that no further search was made and it was not until 5 this afternoon that any of the officers on the van at the time of the shooting were sent to identify the prisoner. Officer Edelin, who was in the van and fired at the horseman, rode out to the station house about 5 o'clock, and after a thorough scrutiny and some conversation with the prisoner, Edelin said: 'Gentlemen, that is not the man. I should know the man I fired at yesterday among a million. I could swear that this is not the man."

Edelin detailed the points as follows: Jones has a light complexion, with hardly a perceptibly mustache, whereas the man who fired at Guiteau, was a dark swarthy man, with very heavy, stumpy, black mustache and keen black eyes. The horse he rode was a heavy sorrel, with white forelegs, while Jones' horse has not a white fleck upon it. The authorities are now pretty well satisfied that Jones is not the man.

Perry Carson, the colored policeman, at the rear of the van, to-night positively identified Jones as the horseman who followed the van to East Capital and First streets, where the shooting occurred. Carson said that when the van reached the capitol grounds Jones was pretty close behind and when they reached First street he rode past the rear of the van. Almost immediately he heard a report of shot and then saw the man who fired the first shot he cannot say, as, from his position on the van, it was impossible to see what happened near the side of the van. The police think to-night Jones is the man who fired at Guiteau, notwithstanding Edelin's statement to the contrary and the lack of positive identification by Carson.

REV. M. L. LAWS filled his appointment at the tabernacle Saturday evening and delivered a logical and thoughtful address on the subject of temperance. He was followed by D. L. Bunn, who made a few well timed remarks in his usual earnest manner. The attendance of friends of the cause was quite good. The room was rather chilly, but it will doubtless be made more comfortable at future meetings.

THE Chicago papers of Saturday last tell somewhat startling stories of the increase in the number of small-pox cases in that city. It is estimated that while the physicians there are vaccinating 500 persons daily, fully 500 immigrants arrive in the city, and some of them bring the disease with them. The Chicago Board of Health is doing its best to keep the disease from spreading.

THE Methodist Episcopal meeting house at Maroa is being enlarged. Rev. W. A. Reynolds, the pastor, must have been holding a summer revival, or perhaps he intends to inaugurate one this winter, and wants more room for the people who will flock to his church to hear the gospel preached.

Clarice To-Night.

The new emotional drama, "Clarice; or All for Love," is a five act play, with scenes laid in Paris and New York. It will be presented in Decatur for the first time this evening by the Katherine Rogers company. An exchange says all the characters are distinct, while that of Clarice is a superb illustration of a pathetic story. The part is especially fitted to Miss Rogers. Varied power, and the action, in which woman's love is strongly pictured, cannot but commend the play and the actress to additional favor from a critical and discriminating public. The plot is well devised, the situations highly dramatic without being of a sensational character, and in the portrayal of strong emotion and the steadfastness of woman's purpose.

REV. CHAS. F. SWEET

Advanced to the Priesthood at St. John's Church This Forenoon.

It was announced in these columns on Saturday that on Sunday forenoon an ordination service would be held at St. John's Episcopal church, in this city, but owing to the non-arrival of Rt. Rev. Geo. F. Seymour, bishop of this (the Springfield) diocese, the ordination was deferred until this forenoon at 10 o'clock. The Bishop was in St. Louis on Saturday, and made an attempt to reach the city that night, but owing to the washout on the Wabash, he could get no nearer Decatur than Pana, which city he reached by boarding a train on the Ohio & Mississippi road. He arrived in the city this morning, and at 10 o'clock this forenoon the Bishop, assisted by Rev. W. H. Moore, of Decatur; Rev. Larabee, of Springfield, and Rev. Taylor, of Danville, he ordained Rev. Charles F. Sweet a priest of the Episcopal brotherhood. The ceremony was quite impressive and interesting and was witnessed by a good representation of the congregation. Rev. Sweet is young in the ministry. He is a graduate of the New York Theological Seminary, and has been in Decatur for nearly a year, assisting Rev. Moore in his pastoral and mission work. Rev. Sweet will have charge of the House of Prayer on East Eldorado street, and of the Episcopal Mission at Bement.

On Sunday forenoon Rev. Taylor officiated at St. John's, and in the evening Rev. Taylor conducted the services.

Bishop Seymour is announced to preach at the Episcopal Mission at Maroa to-morrow evening.

Will Whoop 'Em Up.

One day last week the REPUBLICAN contained a paragraph urging Bro. Walls, of the Macon Independent, to commence stirring up his people on the question of connecting Macon with the Decatur Telephone Exchange, and this is the Independent man's reply:

All right! we'll whoop them! That ice has to be broken if we have to do it with our head or by sitting down on it, as in the dim and misty days of yore. The Independent has ordered a telephone, and our dear old City Dads have given us permission to erect poles to the depot. One of these fine days you will hear our "gentle voice calling"—Do you take sugar in yours?

No.

In this connection it may be interesting to state that Mt. Pulaski and Lincoln are united by telephone, and the new order of things over in Logan county proves to be very popular with business men and others wishing to communicate with each frequently. Macon, Maroa, Blue Mound, Niantic, Harristown, Forsyth, Warrensburg, Mt. Zion, Elwin, Oakley, and all other towns in the county ought to be connected by telephone with the Decatur Exchange. One wire from each town would answer for awhile, and the expense could be paid by a general contribution. Who will be the first to start the boom?

Illinois Odd Fellows.

At the annual communication in Springfield last week of the Grand Encampment, the reports of officers showed the year's receipts to be $5,210; expenses $3,183; total contributing membership, 4,166. Degrees were conferred on 75 new members, and the capitation tax fixed at 50 cents, being 10 cents higher. The annual salary of the Grand Scribe and Treasurer were fixed at $500; office expenses, $100. The unwritten work was exemplified by W. H. Crocker and W. E. Curtis. The following officers were elected: M. W. Grand Patriarch, William Schuebert, of Chester; M. E. G. Grand High Priest, C. W. Aikens, of Nashville; R. W. G. Junior Warden, Amos Kemp, Bloomington; R. W. G. Representative, W. H. Crocker, Evanston. A committee was appointed to prepare resolutions on the death of President Garfield. I. W. Ehrman, Geo. Patterson and a number of other Decatur Odd Fellows were present at the meeting.

A New "Humpty Dumpty."

The Buffalo Express of Oct. 29th contained the following notice of the attraction which will be presented at the opera house in this city to-morrow evening:

A new "Humpty Dumpty." Old amusement goers might think such a statement as improbable as a new "Uncle Tom's Cabin," but the pantomime as presented at St. James Hall last evening, before a house so crowded that desirable standing room was at a premium, has introduced so many new scenes, and original ones, that it may be classed as new. George H. Adams, as the clown, heads the company, and his comicalities, if such they may be termed, kept the house in excellent humor from first to last. As a clown he stands without a superior, and last night seemed at his best. His support is first-class, far above the average. The second act introduces the specialty stars, including the Praeger Family in their famous "Cat Duet," the Martinettis, Mons. and Mme. Tissot, the "living automatons," the Leslie Bros., gymnasts, Alex Davis, ventriloquist, and Adams on his stilts, the act being almost an evening's entertainment itself. The whole concludes with a resplendent transformation scene. Possibly no "Humpty Dumpty" troupe ever organized gave as pleasing and as mirth-provoking an entertainment.

Decatur in Florida.

Several citizens of this community have property and business interests in the "Land of Flowers," better known as Florida, and now Dr. W. T. Sylvester, a former resident of Decatur, and our fellow-townsman, J. M. Clokey, Esq., have embarked in the enterprise of building a railroad in that state Read the following from the Putnam County Journal of a recent date, published at Palatka, Florida, Atlanta, St. Johns & Indian River Railroad.—This is the name of a new road just organized by J. M. Clokey, of Illinois; N. R. Gruelle, Supt. Florida Southern Railway; W. T. and J. W. Sylvester, now of Palatka, both old railroad men, and S. C. Ming, of this place, which is run between Palatka and St. Augustine, and from here to a point on the Indian River, in Brevard county The preliminary papers have been completed and a transcript forwarded to the Secretary of State for filing The road will run through the counties of St. Johns, Putnam, Volusia and Brevard The length of the road will be in the neighborhood of 200 miles. Next week we shall be able to lay before our readers full particulars. The gentlemen who have this enterprise in hand are experienced railroad operators, able to command the necessary capital to construct the road.

Dr Sylvester and family lately removed from Arcola to Palatka. The Doctor was formerly connected with the Illinois Midland Railway, and has considerable experience in the management of railroads, as has also Mr Clokey.

Passengers and baggage at that point had to be transferred last night All three trains out of St Louis arrived at the bridge, and not until the last one came did the transfer take place. Then all the passengers came on to Decatur in one train, arriving here at 4 o'clock this morning. The trains on the other side returned to St. Louis. Not until the water falls considerably can the company repair unsafe bridges and washouts The Wabash track near Edwardsville is under water, and the Mississippi river is even higher than it was last June.

THE GRIM GLEANER.

Death of Mrs. Clara E. Dudley Saturday Evening—Funeral of the Late R. L. Evans.

Mrs. Clara E. Dudley, only daughter of Mr. R Liddle, died at the residence of her father in this city, on the evening of the 19th inst., in the 36th year of her age, of consumption. The deceased had been ill for nearly a year, but was only confined to her room since last August. She suffered more than words can tell, and death was welcomed by the invalid. She leaves a daughter who is 15 years of age.

The funeral of Mrs Dudley took place from the Baptist church this (Monday) afternoon and was largely attended by acquaintances of the deceased and sympathizing friends of the bereaved parents and family. The services were conducted by Rev. M. L. Laws, and the remains were interred in Greenwood Cemetery.

THE LATE R. L. EVANS.

The obsequies of the late librarian, Richard L. Evans, took place on Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock, from the Christian church, in the presence of a large assembly of people that filled the church completely. Many persons who came late to pay their last respects to the beloved departed, were unable to gain admission, and several hundred people stood outside and others returned to their homes. Had the services been held in the tabernacle that spacious room would have been filled.

The church was tastefully draped with crape, and the altar was adorned with many rich and beautiful tributes of love. The casket containing the remains was transferred from the residence of Mr. Glore to the church in the hearse and was escorted by the pall-bearers, Messrs. B. O. McReynolds, Jesse Leforgee, E. R. Eldridge, John W. Tyler, jr., Joseph Gates and John Scott, 28 members of the Macon County Veteran Association, a full representation of Celestial Lodge, No. 186, I. O. O. F., members of the Young Men's Christian Association, and by the Board of Directors of the Decatur Public Library.

The solemn funeral exercises commenced with singing "Asleep in Jesus," followed by reading the twelfth chapter of St. Matthew, by Rev. J. W. Maynard, the pastor, who offered a touching prayer. "Nearer My God" was the second song sung by the choir and congregation, when Rev. Maynard occupied about 15 minutes time in the delivery of a beautiful tribute to the dead. He spoke of him as an honored citizen, as a faithful church member, as a sailor and librarian. In touching words the minister spoke of his short but close acquaintance with the departed, and offered tender words of consolation to the bereaved widow and friends.

Rev. Maynard was followed by Elder John W. Tyler in a few remarks. He read several appropriate selections from the Bible, upon which he commented. The Elder touchingly alluded to his long personal acquaintance with the deceased and deplored his death, while he expressed his deep sympathy with those who were nearest and dearest to him. The Elder closed his remarks by reading a short biography of the deceased, when the congregation joined the choir in singing "I Would Not Live Alway."

At the grave in Greenwood Cemetery the mortal remains of R L Evans were laid at rest with imposing Odd Fellows' ceremonies.

The funeral was one of the largest ever witnessed in the city. It called out people who had learned to love Mr. Evans as a brother. Nearly everybody in Decatur who visits the Christian Church and the Public Library and Reading Rooms knew him well. He was the superintendent of the Christian Sunday School and treasurer of the church, both of which positions he filled with honor to himself and credit to the society. He had the happy faculty of gaining and retaining the confidence of the children in the school and in the Library rooms they loved to rely upon his experience and judgment in selecting suitable books for them to read His place as librarian will be difficult to fill, and he will be greatly missed by all patrons of that worthy institution—the Public Library.

A Sneezing Scene.

New York Mercury.

Probably one of the meanest stage tricks that was ever played was played on Mary Anderson. It will be remembered that in the play of "Ingomar," Parthenia and the barbarian have several love scenes, where they lop on each other and hug some—that is, not too much hugging, but just hugging enough. Ingomar wears a huge fur garment, made of lion's skin, or something. One day he noticed that the moths were getting into it, and he told his servant to see about the moths and drive them out. The servant got some insect powder and blowed the hair of the garment full of it, and scrubbed the inside of it with benzine. Ingomar put it on just before he went on the stage, and thought it didn't smell just right, but he had no time to inquire into it. He had not got fairly into his position before Parthenia came out on a hop, skip and jump, and threw herself all over him. She got one lung full of insect powder and the other full of benzine, and as she said, "Wilt always love me, Ingomar?" she dropped her head over his shoulder and said in an aside, "For the love of heaven, what have you been drinking?" and then she sneezed a couple of times. Ingomar held her up the best he could, considering that his nose was full of insect powder, and he answered, "I wilt," and then he said to her quietly, "Damfino what it is that smells so." They went on with the play between sneezes, and when the curtain went down she told Ingomar to go out and shake himself, and he did. It was noticed in the next act that Ingomar had a linen ulster on and Mary snoze no more.

The leading Scientists of to-day agree that most diseases are caused by disordered Kidneys or Liver. If, therefore, the Kidneys and Liver are kept in perfect order, perfect health will be the result. This truth has only been known a short time and for years people suffered great agony without being able to find relief. The discovery of Warner's Safe Kidney and Liver Cure marks a new era in the treatment of these troubles. Made from a simple tropical leaf of rare value, it contains just the elements necessary to nourish and invigorate both of these great organs and safely restore and keep them in order. It is a POSITIVE Remedy for all the diseases that cause pains in the lower part of the body—for Torpid Liver—Headache—Dizziness—Biliousness—General Fever—Ague—Malarial Fever, and all difficulties of the Kidneys, Liver and Urinary Organs.

It is an excellent and safe remedy for females during Pregnancy. It will control Menstruation and is invaluable for Leucorrhœa or Falling of the Womb.

As a Blood Purifier it is unequaled, for it cures the organs that make the blood.

This Remedy, which has done such wonders, is put up in the LARGEST SIZED BOTTLE of any medicine upon the market, and is sold by Druggists and all dealers at $1.25 per bottle. For Diabetes, enquire for WARNER'S SAFE DIABETES CURE. It is a POSITIVE Remedy.
